

Your sister tells you that her husband won't allow her to go on birth control.

Being forced into sex, including unprotected sex, by anyone-husband, boyfriend or date – isn't a 'personal problem' or a 'private matter'. It's a crime with serious effects for everyone, and society as a whole.

WHY DRAW THE LINE

Controlling a woman's access to birth control is considered sexual violence. Everyone has rights to control their own body. Being in a relationship does not change this right.

WHEN TO DRAW THE LINE

Sexual violence is unacceptable. Period. This includes when a person is in a relationship. Every person has control over their body and their choices must be respected.

HOW TO DRAW THE LINE

There's always more than one option for a bystander. Take a stand safely and do something that you feel comfortable with. You could:

- Support her. Listen to her story.
- Believe her. Validate her feelings.
- Find help for her. Offer community resources and services.

IT HAPPENED TO ME

Remember, it's never your fault. You're not alone. Tell someone you trust.
